"Let's follow it!" cried Bulelani, his skinny legs already moving fast. Themba quickly joined in. Vuyelwa was so excited that she spun around in a circle. Then she took off after the boys.

I tried to stay with them, but I hadn't yet learned how to walk quickly and carry the jug. I wanted to leave it behind, but we needed it.

I sighed, put the jug on the ground, sat beside it and waited.
